

Caring For Our Community

In the heart of South Levin is Hinemoa House - a gym, a boxing room, art classes, community washing machine, and so much more. Here, generosity is given and lives are healed. This community gem urgently needs your support to continue to provide essential wellbeing and services for the South Levin community.

Hinemoa House (Horowhenua Kids, Teens and Family Trust) creates a place where all are welcome, and all are supported.

Hinemoa House

Ben Tasker puts his all into the weekly boxing classes. Boxing trainer and mentor Perry Rackley offers young people like Ben the chance to find discipline, friendship, and a fighting spirit.
