Ohau's Marvellous Market

Ohau Hall has been the hub of the tiny Ohau community for more than 100 years. By 2011 the hall was fast falling into disrepair and was at a stage where some serious time and money was required if the hall was to survive.

Local ladies Heather Wright and Bev Hamilton wanted to not only help raise funds to fix the present issues, but to somehow produce a future proofing income to contribute to future maintenance. In February 2011 the inaugural Ohau Market was held and now, in its' seventh year, is still going strong.

The number of stalls has increased considerably from the early days. The original market facilitators wanted to ensure only quality wares were ever on offer and that is still the case. From fresh local produce to hand created clothing, jewellery and crafts, everything has earned its place.

Ohau market is believed to be the longest operating in Levin and over the years has made significant contributions to ensure the hall is kept in a good state of repair. Presently the market aims to replace all the old tables belonging to the hall. Locals wanting to raise funds for a specific project can apply for a free stall, but generally indoor stalls are $16 and outdoor $11. There is free parking, wheelchair access and toilets.
