Otaki Players

Otaki Players Society have been a part of Otaki history since the 1940's. In October 1947 three one act plays were performed at the Anglican Hall and later at the Otaki Sanatorium, with proceeds donated to the Otaki War Memorial Hall fund. From there it grew and "the Players" have delighted local audiences on a regular basis ever since at a variety of venues.

In 1991 The Otaki Players had the chance to return to the 'Civic Theatre' on Otaki's Main Street, 40 years after the first performance there. A lease agreement with the Council gave the Society a permanent home for their large accumulation of props, costumes, and equipment.

With 80 members from all walks of life, they have produced plays, musicals, variety shows and pantomimes with content from locals. Over time they have performed works by Roger Hall, Andrew Lloyd-Webber and many more.

The Players are currently working on the centuries old penny dreadful "Sweeney Todd the Demon Barber of Fleet Street". Under the direction of Peter Carr and musical directors Graham Orchard and Andrea King, a cast of talented locals will bring to life the thrilling story of revenge and retribution.

The season will run from 24 August – 9 September at Otaki Civic Theatre, Main Street, Otaki.

No hot water? Call us first...

If you've got no electric hot water or it doesn't feel as hot as it should be, call us first.

It might not be a problem with your appliance or wiring, it could be that we've temporarily turned off the electricity supply to your hot water cylinder. We call this 'load control'.

Check with us for FREE

Before you call the plumber or electrician and get charged a call-out fee, check your electric hot water load control status FIRST.

You can do this either by:

- visiting our website to check the current load status (in real time)
- calling us on 0800 567 876

If your hot water problem isn't due to load control, we'll send a Faultsperson to your home to check your electricity supply. Only once they've confirmed the problem isn't related to our network should you call a plumber or electrician.

Our FREE service could save you an unnecessary fee so please, call us first.
